Our Journey Begins: From the Earliest Traditions to the Exile

Although the Church Fathers, reading the Old Testament in the light of the New, saw the spiritual, Christological meaning everywhere, we will follow a more literal reading of the Hebrew bible to discover how God unveiled the mystery of the Spirit little by little. We will begin with the earliest traditions, the Yahwist account of the spirit as life-breath given to Adam, and then follow the trail through the Elohist, Deuteronomy, the books of Samuel and Kings and the pre-exilic prophets, noting both the positive picture of the Spirit as well as Jeremiah's ambivalence due to the false prophets' claims to be speaking by the Spirit of God.

2:45 p.m. Break

3:15 p.m. Presentation: Rev. George Montague, S.M., S.T.D.

From the Exile to Jesus: The Spirit Wakes the Dry Bones, Rebuilds Israel, Inspires Wisdom and Song

To a people disheartened by exile Ezekiel prophesies resurrection. Second and Third Isaiah promise a new outpouring of the Spirit at the homecoming, and Joel proclaims the gift of the Spirit upon "all flesh." The psalms equate the "holy spirit" with God's presence, and the Wisdom literature lays the groundwork for the Trinitarian revelation in the New Testament.

6:00 p.m. Dinner is served for attendees rooming at Oblate.

Paul: Dynamic Theologian of the Holy Spirit

St. Paul understands the human person as spirit, soul, body. The Holy Spirit is being given constantly to the believer; he is the interior revealer of the mystery of Christ and of the Father; the Spirit is intimately joined to the body of Jesus and the body of the Christian, and he manifests his power through charismatic gifts of the Spirit. The Spirit enables us to transcend the Law and to journey toward glory with invincible hope.

10:15 a.m. Break

10:45 a.m. Presentation: Rev. George Montague, S.M., S.T.D.

The Spirit in Mark and Matthew

In Mark the Holy Spirit is primarily the Spirit of power by which Jesus conquers Satan in all his manifestations. The Holy Spirit, agent of the conception of Jesus, announces a new creation in Jesus' baptism; and Matthew shows how Jesus' understanding of the eschatological Spirit differs from that of John the Baptist. The risen Lord abides in the church through his spiritual presence in a way different from Luke, who stresses the role of the Holy Spirit.

12:00 p.m. Lunch

1:30 p.m. Presentation: Rev. George Montague, S.M., S.T.D.

Luke, the Narrative Theologian of the Holy Spirit

In the infancy account Luke presents a prologue to both his gospel and the Acts, showing a domestic Pentecost that anticipates the descent of the Spirit in Acts 2 and the work of the Spirit in the development of the Church. In the gospel Jesus proclaims his anointing by the Spirit as he begins his mission of preaching, healing, and exorcizing. The Holy Spirit leads Jesus' personal prayer and teaches inwardly what Jesus teaches outwardly in the Lord's prayer.

2:45 p.m. Break

3:15 p.m. Presentation: Rev. George Montague, S.M., S.T.D.

The Summit: John's Theology of the Holy Spirit

Beyond adoption, new birth given by the Holy Spirit, who is the living water gushing from Jesus' side, the gift also of Jesus' last breath. The Paraclete, the only personal image of the Holy Spirit, unfolds the mystery of Jesus and the Father and vindicates the church against the attacks of the world.

5:00 p.m. Mass- Immaculate Conception Memorial Chapel

6:00 p.m. Dinner is served for attendees rooming at Oblate.
